THE SOUL'S DEAR LAND.

I know the Blessed Islands somewhere
In rose-crowned splendor on a sapphire sea.
I know the Age of Gold can never die;
And far Hesperides has fruit for me.

White towers of fair Atlantis place the blue
Her terraces and temples vine-wreathed stand.
Dream-haunting music floats the glad hours through,
With lulling waves that lap the level strand.

Cool groves of asphodel where young nymphs play,
Lush vales where Dian leads her laughing band,
Tim paths of Arcady where lovers stray
Have never faded from the soul's dear land.

The story of Olympus needs no ruth;
The fair gods live and love, and pass,
All beauty that the soul has known is truth,
Immortal truth, more true than life—at last.

TO DANCE AT FORT BARRACAS.

One of the delightful events of tonight will be the dance which is to be given at Fort Barracas by the officers and ladies, a large number of guests to go down from town. Social life, which has undeniably been extremely dull for some time at Barracas, is picking up this winter thanks to the arrival of a number of extremely charming ladies, who have taken matters in their own hands, with a determination to impart something of the natural gaiety for which the usual army post is known.

The fact that for a time, there were but few ladies at the post, explained, in some measure, the social lethargy which is being but recently dispelled.

Among yesterday's arrivals at the San Carlos hotel were Dr. Hammond and family, of Chicago, who will spend some time as tourists in the city. Dr. Hammond is a prominent physician, being house physician at the Congress hotel in the Windy City.

MISS PARRISH, OF DEFUNIAK SPRINGS, VISITS PENSACOLA FRIENDS.
Miss Parrish, a prominent young lady of DeFuniak springs, visited Pensacola friends yesterday, leaving on the night train for New Orleans, where she will combine business with pleasure. On her return trip, she will visit a sister in Mobile, and will be at home until about the middle of February.

MISS BILLIE BURKE, A SAN CARLOS VISITOR.
Among the very interesting visitors at the San Carlos yesterday was the famous little Miss Billie Burke, who played last night in "The Runaway," and who is about as charming a "bit of dainty femininity as one would wish to see."

She came into the lobby and on in to the cafe, wearing her thick white veil, very closely drawn, which showed very plainly that she doesn't

How a Woman May Retain Her Youth
"The woman who wants to look young must take care of her skin and liquid rouge. She will only harden the structure of her face and destroy the fine texture of the skin," said Mrs. Margaret Holmes Bates, the well-known author, to a Chicago Journal representative.

"Reputable physicians have declared that if she indulges in artificial methods she risks losing her health," she continued. A perfectly natural method of treating a bad complexion is by using ordinary mercurized wax; this adds nothing to the complexion, but removes it instead. This wax, obtainable at any drug store, flakes off the scall or blotchy outer skin in fine particles, gently, without harming the skin beneath, which gradually makes its appearance. The brilliantly beautiful complexion thus obtained is a new one—quite different from a patched-up old complexion. This is one way to retain youthful looks. An ounce of mercurized wax is sufficient. It is applied at night like cold cream and washed off in the morning.

SON OF MR. AND MRS. HENRY HAYES DEAD
The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hayes of Bay Point, were shocked to learn of the death of their little son, George, age thirty-four months, Tuesday night at 9:50 at the residence of Mrs. Hayes's father, Mr. B. L. Barclay, in this city.

The remains were interred in the family lot at Milton, Rev. Mr. Harrison, of the Milton Methodist church, officiating, and whose tender and loving words brought tears to the eyes of all those present.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayes have the sympathy of their many friends in their sad bereavement.

The aviator's wife, while out for a spin with him, said: "I'm afraid we will have to go down again, dear. I have lost one of the pearl buttons of my coat, and I can see it gleaming down there on the grass." "Forget it, honey, that's Lake Erie," Argonaut.

BLUE RIBBON ON TOP.
Each year shows advancement. Today Blue Ribbon Flavoring Extracts stand higher above competitors than ever before. Quality does it. Ask your grocer for delicious Blue Ribbon Vanilla. "Best and takes less."

"If those California women run for office do you think they would be guilty of purchasing votes?" "Not unless they got green trading stamps with them."—Houston Post.

"I should think it would get tiresome being led about by your wife all the time," said the tactless person to the blind man. "Yes," sighed the latter, "but it's better than being driven."—Brooklyn Life.

AMERICAN WOMAN'S LEAGUE MET YESTERDAY AT THE MISSION HOME.
The American Woman's League met yesterday afternoon at the Mission Home, Miss M. Axelson being elected secretary to fill the vacancy caused by the departure of Mrs. B. Morey from the city. Ways and means were discussed, and future affairs, to be given by the ladies, were decided upon. The fun consisted in selling the goodies which had been provided for the party, and as the small guests received the little plate of ice cream or the nice vanilla cakes or the little bundles of candies, nobody seemed to think they were dear at a penny or two. The boys and girls had all come in their party clothes, and when the sale was over a young woman who was helping the fun along sat down at the piano and played for the dancing.

Whatever be its drawback, however, the society is the demand of the fashionable woman, and whether it be worn in the bath, fastened in a jeweled band which encircles the head, or in a hat, it is the necessity of the moment.

I WANT YOU, LITTLE WOMAN.
I want you, little woman, when the blue is growing dark.
And the building shadows stretch themselves across the City Park.
When the sturdy Day is weary and goes away to rest
With its forehead on the bosom of the Evening in the West.

I want you, little woman, when I wander sadly down
To the sea wall at the Battery—the Birthplace of the Town.
Where the white waves and the warships in a dreary monotone
Murmur: "Where is she, thy Lady; why walk you here alone?"

I want you, little woman, when the city lamps are lit
And I see a happy couple where we were wont to sit.
And I look my love within me and I wander home to sleep
Where a man may play at childhood and the dear God let him weep.

MISS LAURA JOYNER RETURNS FROM MOBILE.
Miss Laura Joyner has returned from a pleasant visit in Mobile, where she was the guest of Miss Estelle Ollinger. During her stay of several weeks, she was delightfully entertained by Miss Ollinger and a number of her other Mobile friends, many social affairs being given in her honor.

ENTERTAINING THE CHILDREN.
Did you notice the enormous number of playhouses offered for children in the shops at Christmas time—dollhouses, country cottages big enough for four children to enter, grocery stores, and so on?

They are all connected with the present system of education, which is to make the child think for itself. They are, besides, the most delightful playthings that can be had, and if the toy shop buildings are expensive, good imitations of them can be made at home at small cost from thin boards or old packing cases. The big toys are inspiring to juvenile resources and in the games connected with them the children acquire much knowledge of real life. The little grocer or expressman learns to count real money, while the small mistress of the big cottage or dollhouse becomes an admirable housewife, in a tiny way, through the dainty care of her toy menage.

With one of these novel toys in the house a child can give a successful party with the character of the building as a motive for the species of the play, and the usual time of the party, coming very popular for juveniles.

An invitation to a party of this sort recently given ran as follows:
"Jimmy Wilson, grocer, begs to call your attention to a sale of fine cases, ice cream and cakes of all sorts, which will be held at his store on Thursday afternoon, February tenth. Please bring five pennies along and wear your dancing slippers."

"One hundred and two Plum street."

When the eager little guests—who, of course, knew all about Jimmy's Christmas toy—arrived on the important day, there was a corner in his mother's flat fixed for all the world like a village street. The store was only front and side board, of course, but it stood so snugly against the wall nobody could notice that. It was of imitation red brick, with a grand sign—J. Wilson, Groceries—and a pleasant shelf outside on which stood a number of the grocer's nicest samples. On the shelf inside there were canned tomatoes, condensed milk, a few potatoes and onions and so on, all of these articles being borrowed from the pantry, and to be used, of course, later on for the family table. The real sale things were in a new ice cream freezer on the counter, two candy jars and a big cake plate. About the store stood some rubber plants to imitate trees, and Jimmy, a sunny, towheaded little man of about six years, wore a grocer's cart of white drill and stood behind his counter, saying, "What can I do for you, please?" in the most attentive manner.

The fun consisted in selling the goodies which had been provided for the party, and as the small guests received the little plate of ice cream or the nice vanilla cakes or the little bundles of candies, nobody seemed to think they were dear at a penny or two. The boys and girls had all come in their party clothes, and when the sale was over a young woman who was helping the fun along sat down at the piano and played for the dancing.

Supercedes Massage as Wrinkle Remover
(The Woman Beautiful.)

Many women regularly visit the beauty specialist to have their wrinkles ironed out with the help of hot applications, cold creams and massage. Most of us realize that there comes a time when no amount of persuasion of this sort will avail. This process of "wrinkle removing" is wrong in principle. Both the hot water and the cold cream tend to expand and loosen the skin, besides softening the muscular foundation.

The very opposite result should be aimed at. The skin should be strengthened, the skin tightened, so there'll be no room for wrinkles. The best known preparation for the purpose can be made at home by dissolving 1 oz. of salicylic in 1-2 pint witch hazel. Use as a wash lotion. The effect is really marvelous. Tell the druggist you want the powdered salicylic, which dissolves immediately.
